

ERSEY THIRSTDAYS HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

2nd August 2012

Run Number 213

Starting at Central Hotel, Shotton

The Pack Carthief, Compo; Snoozanne; Mad Hatter; 10", Tia Maria, Alternative Entrance, Hansel (Co-Hare), OTT (Co Hare), FCUK, Posh Frock

Meeting up at the car park opposite the pub and 10" kept texting to say that he would be 7 minutes late and then 9 minutes. I think that the final lateness was a certain number of minutes and 10"

A half Hash Flash or two whilst waiting for 10"

Trail was found leading through the carpark and heading up The Brambles

Along a narrow path

And a Check

Now this is a slightly unusual photo as it shows FCUK out in front (except for your scribe). This situation did not last long as we spotted the dreaded Check Back (Back Check to those more used to WCH3 parlance)

Out onto Killins Lane

And the usual plethora of styles for the stile

Across another stile and into a field that the farmer was still mowing.
Tia Maria became somewhat aggressive

And we found the remains of some flour amongst the mown grass

Onto a Regroup and a Hash Flash

Whilst the remainder of the Pack took the short cut Carthief followed the trail back through the nettles thus avoiding the gate

Everyone else was not so lucky

With Carthief and Hanzel safely through the next gate Tia Maria squeezes her bum through except that both Carthief and Hanzel had thought she had said that she needed her bum squeezed.

Tia Maria tries to recruit a new hasher

and received the reply:

“Maybe an udder time. I am not in the moo’d”.

Note from Hash Scribe (I think that I have milked that situation as much as I can)

Out onto

Over the A55.

Through (over?)

The Trail led upwards and another Hash Regroup on top of a mine dump

OTT was gazing in the opposite direction and muttered something about seeing the back gate open.

Down to the play area on Mount Pleasant Road

9" instead of 10"

A nice run in to the beer stop at Gemma's house although Google street view does not give it too much credit

The Hares had left a car at the Hash halt and we rode back to the start in comfort.

Back at the cars the food was brought forth and a cake although I have forgotten the reason for the cake. The rather interesting icing arrangement is arrived at by using the delicate technique of turning the cake upside down so that only some of the icing sticks to the lid of the cake tin.

The circle was called and Compo gave the sermon

“Did you know that it was the Welsh Muslim festival this week?”

“Yes it is called Ramalamb

Hansel went to see his doctor

“The problem is that I cannot stop singing “The green green grass of home”.

His doctor said that it was the Tom Jones syndrome

“Is it common?” asked Hansel

“It’s not unusual” replied the doctor.

Whilst in hospital he overheard two nurses talking. The ugly one said “I see that Dai Jones has Ludo tattooed on his penis. The pretty one said “That is not Ludo, it is Llandudno”.

Note from Hash Scribe. I had always heard it as Loch and Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwlllantysiliogogogoch but that would mix Scottish with Welsh so it is probably apocryphal.

The Hares were brought into the circle

Followed by 10” who had arrived late thus depriving the rest of us of valuable drinking time.

Posh Frock Returnee.

Gemma Wedding anniversary

Hanzel For setting the run and then allowing the Grim Reaper to mow the field.

Hanzel, Carthief for deliberately misunderstanding Tia Maria's syntax when they offered to squeeze her bum. According to them she had said "I need you to squeeze my bum through this narrow gate"

Carthief again for following the Check Back (back through the nettles rather than following the herd on a short cut.

By this time it was almost 10PM so we retired to the pub.
