

ERSEY THIRSTDAYS HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

2nd February 2017

Run Number 338

Falcon, Chester

Compo, Carthief, Snoozanne, FCUK, Mad Hatter, Hansel, OTT, Cleopatra, Overdrive, Virgin-on-the Ridiculous, CYKR, Chris, Auntie Cyclone (Hare), ET, Victim

The Pack gathered in the Falcon on the corner of Lower Bridge Street and Pepper Street with the cars of the unknowing scattered all over Lower Bridge Street whilst those in the know parked in the Castle carpark (past the exit only signpost).

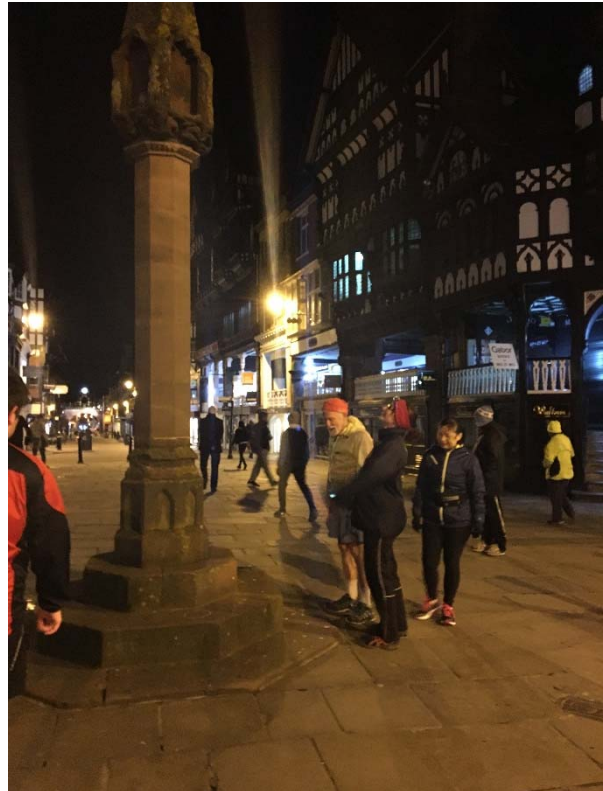

The usual Hash Flash with the Hare indicating that it is going to be a crap run.

Whilst describing the markings he intimated that as he had been traumatically admonished when on his previous outing as Hare for a distinct lack of shiggy he had made sure that this time there would be plenty for everyone.

After hunting around, trail was found up Bridge Street although whether the route was marked up the first floor walkway or on the road was not discovered until we arrived at the Cross

Compo discovered a relevant shop

Up to the canal via Frodsham St.

At some point along here we spotted Under-The-Table's handiwork

(Prosaically it probably means “Cut off here below the tarmac”)

Along the canal and then the walls although I cannot quite find the location of this procession

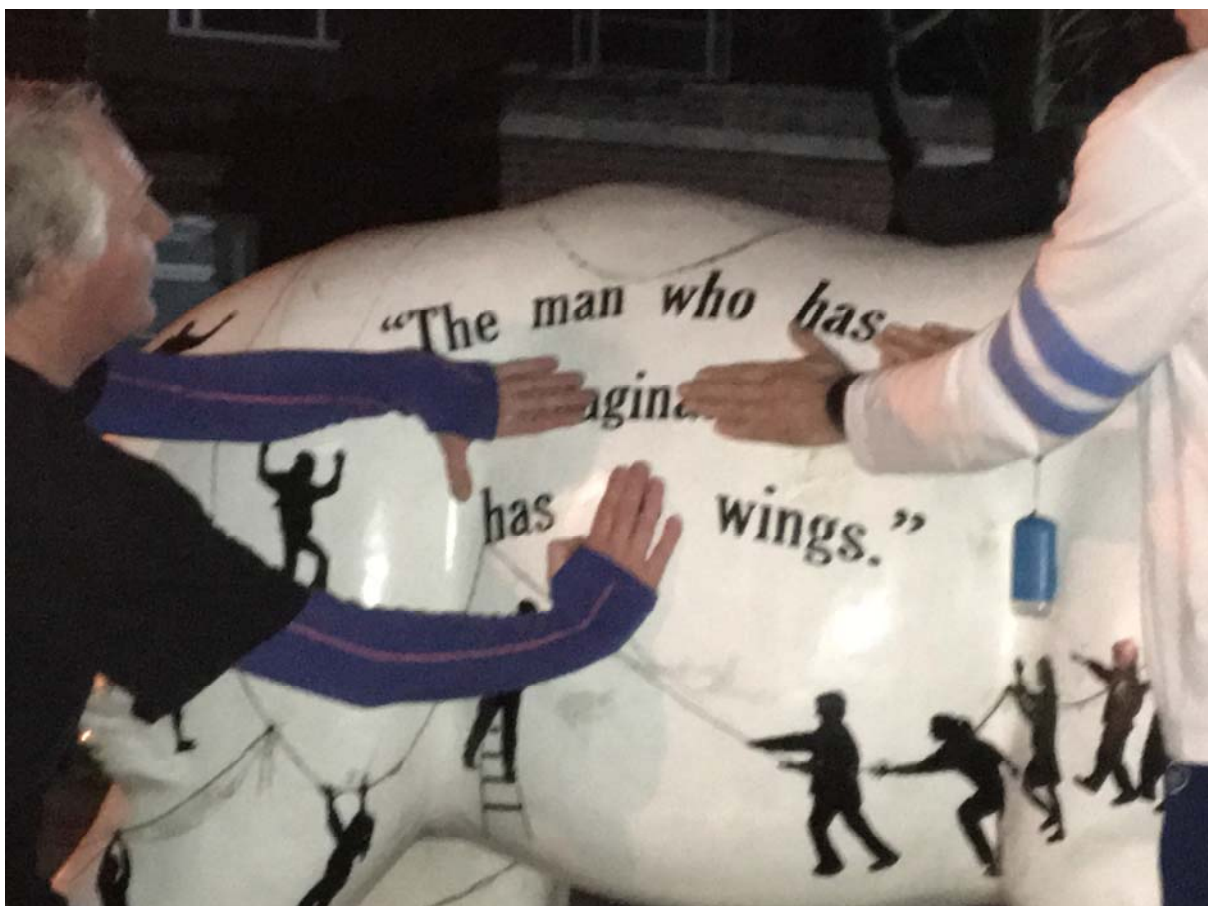

Down to the River and across on the old bridge with ET demonstrating his fastest pace

Arriving at the Queen's Park HS

There was some blocking of words and letters and a ride

The trail led ominously towards the Chester Meadows and a deep breath was taken by all except the shortcutters who followed the red route.

With only water and a few bushes the Hare had resorted to a novel marking method

Snap lights

Across a bridge

A dry pair of shoes from one of the shortcutters

(perhaps we should not victimise him too much)

Compared to one of the non-shortcutting
hashers

Chris noticed that as she was shorter than the rest of us she was having to swim instead of wading which led to a naming later.

Is that water on her chest?

Back at the various car locations we all made our way to the Castle carpark and the array of food

Down downs (probably incomplete) (FCUK doing sterling work on recording the sins)

1. CT 'So long to Solihull' a watery down down for the road.
2. Hansel for temporarily losing himself and his sense of humour at the 'Check it out '.
3. Victim, Snoozanne and OTT as short cutters. The last two refused to enter the Dee bog but kept their toes dry.
4.  STOP PRESS Chris was Christened for her quip that, because she was 'only little' and so, while others got their ankles wet on the Dee flood plain, she was pretty much doing the 'Breast Stroke' and so she will be known for evermore. ' BS' for short maybe? Well done Compo for spotting that gem.

5. Hansel got presented with his waterproof sealskin socks to great acclaim for 100 MTH3 runs it is! Great timing Hansel, you should have Come to even more runs. Here he was being presented with superlative dry socks while he stood in wet trainers after the shiggliest MTH3 run since his own N-Wales slurry experience.

6. AC for a memorable run, with castellation around the city walls and an adaptive trail. Thanks for circling the dog poo on the bridge!

7. AC prize designed and presented by Cleo Hash stats for the best run to hare ratio in 2016.

8. Overdrive and Cleo nominated by CYKR for turning up at his place of residence dressed for dinner. Usual comments were made about ' never seen you with your clothes on'...

The food on it having been polished off the table was almost blowing away. The pack packed up and headed off to the pub. As CT is wont to say, this hash will be long remembered and boost MTH3's reputation.

ON AFTERS

The famous fourteen went into the fab Falcon where there was some furious planning for weekenders to Snowdonia and celebrations for run 350. The hareline grew even longer with offers from ET and the newly named Breast Stroke.
