

Run 72
13 September 2007
Newstead Abbey Pub

Four intrepid hashers – Austin Powers, Compo, Scamp and Carless Whisper turned up for Leaky-tool’s run – that would take us through NEET (not in employment, education or training) neighbourhoods that would make the most seasoned copper recoil.

We started at the Newstead Abbey on Smithdown road, Leaky’s local, and proceeded through the backstreets, being randomly verbally abused by local also-rans, to the cemetery.

After a quick tour of the cemetery we circled ASDA and went over Ullet Road to Sefton Park, up past Bellerive School and over Princes Park to another salubrious neighbourhood, that resulted in Scamp being accosted by a feral pack of ex-pupils.

The angry mob of delinquents pursued us, but as they perilously crossed Smithdown road, Scamp went into teacher mode and sent them home.

Down downs by Austin Powers:

Returnee – Carless Whisper

Compo – for a sermon that exceeded expectations

Scamp – Teacher

Hare – Leaky Tool
