

ERSEY THIRSTDAYS HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

Run Number 97 3rd July 2008
Hunts Cross Station, Hunts Cross, Liverpool

The Pack: Carthief, 10 Seconds, Carless Whisper(Hare), OTT, Hansel

In keeping with the latest minimalistic tradition (on the last run Compo (the Hare) kept his hands in his pockets) The Hare gave us only one pictogram as an instruction

Compare this to previous efforts which covered entire carparks (Run No. 69 for example).

Off we went up Speke Road where 3 people were heard to say “Ah The Hash”. They lived in Hong Kong and had come across the markings etc.

3 HK residents with Chinese takeaways

10 Seconds spotted this and said “what does ABC mean”.

Dyslexics of the world untie turning into Stuart Avenue we made our way onto the old railway line where the Hare aspired to higher things not realising that the grass cut her down to size

Still on the theme of over / undersize the Hare had found a (presumably) sculpture which took 10 seconds about er 10 seconds to climb

Attempts to get The Hare into the air were not so successful.

Still on the old railway track raspberry picking became part of the trail although had been taken to mean Regroup and not Raspberry Gathering

Still along the old railway track and onto a Check

Out onto the roundabout on Clifton Avenue. The word Cliff must have got lodged in a couple of brains.

after that excitement it was back under the old railway past a curious marking which was initially taken to be The Hare's latest instruction but turned out to have been painted onto the pavement

Carthief was persuaded to get his leg over

Up to the English Rose pub and then a whole series of roads called Manor this or Manor that until we came to the

The Hare then slightly spoilt us by marking the stile.

The "public footpath" sign may have helped.

On the Golf Course but not for long

Leg overs were much in evidence and OTT even managed to get a hand job as well.

A dash down Speke Road with The Hare admiring her handiwork

And so back to the cars, refreshments and Down Down's in that order

10 Second for his dyslexia (reading CB4 as ABC)

Hansel for having to check with OTT after counting 4 blobs (he probably teaches maths as well).

Returnees OTT and Hansel

For not climbing into the chairs Carless Whisper and Carthief
