

MERSEY THIRSTDAYS
HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

Run Number 575

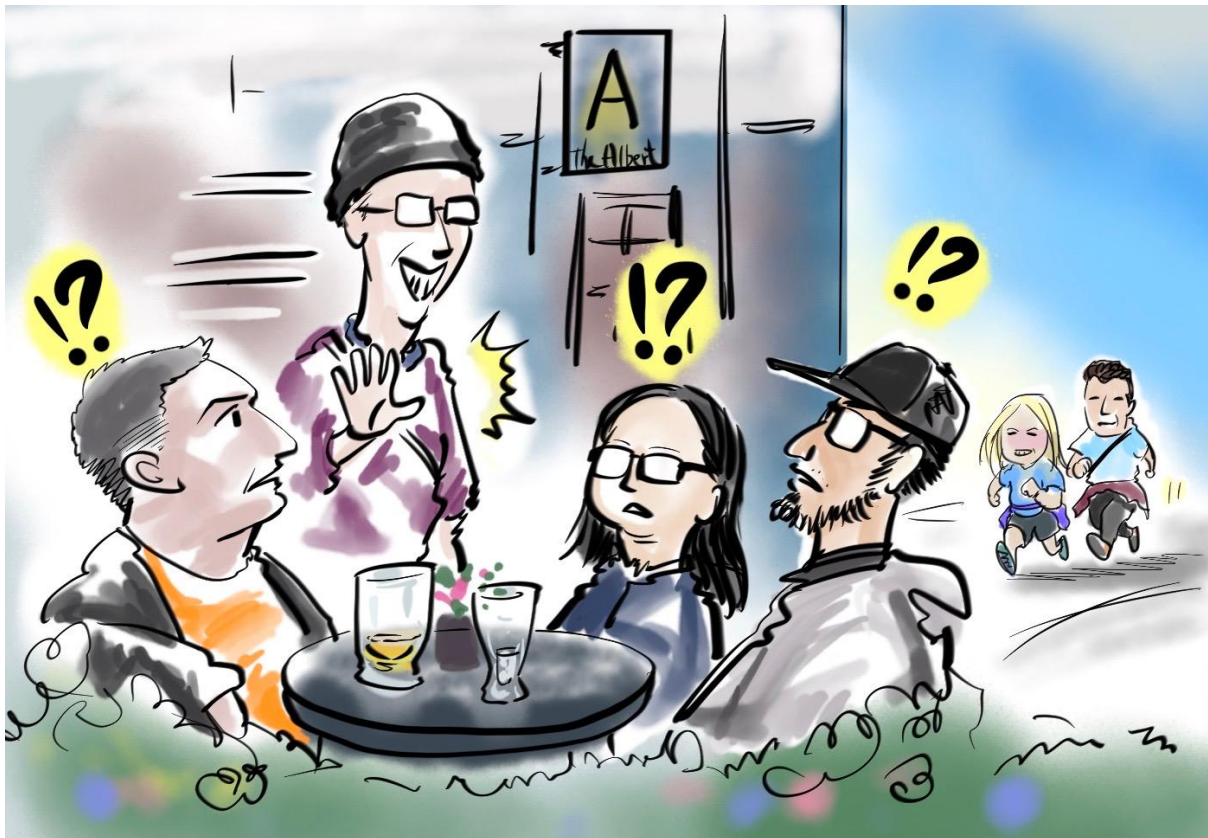

24th April 2025

The Albert, Lark Lane, Liverpool

Hares: Piss Artist & Breast Stroke

The Pack: Overdrive, ET, Wigan Pier, Now & Then

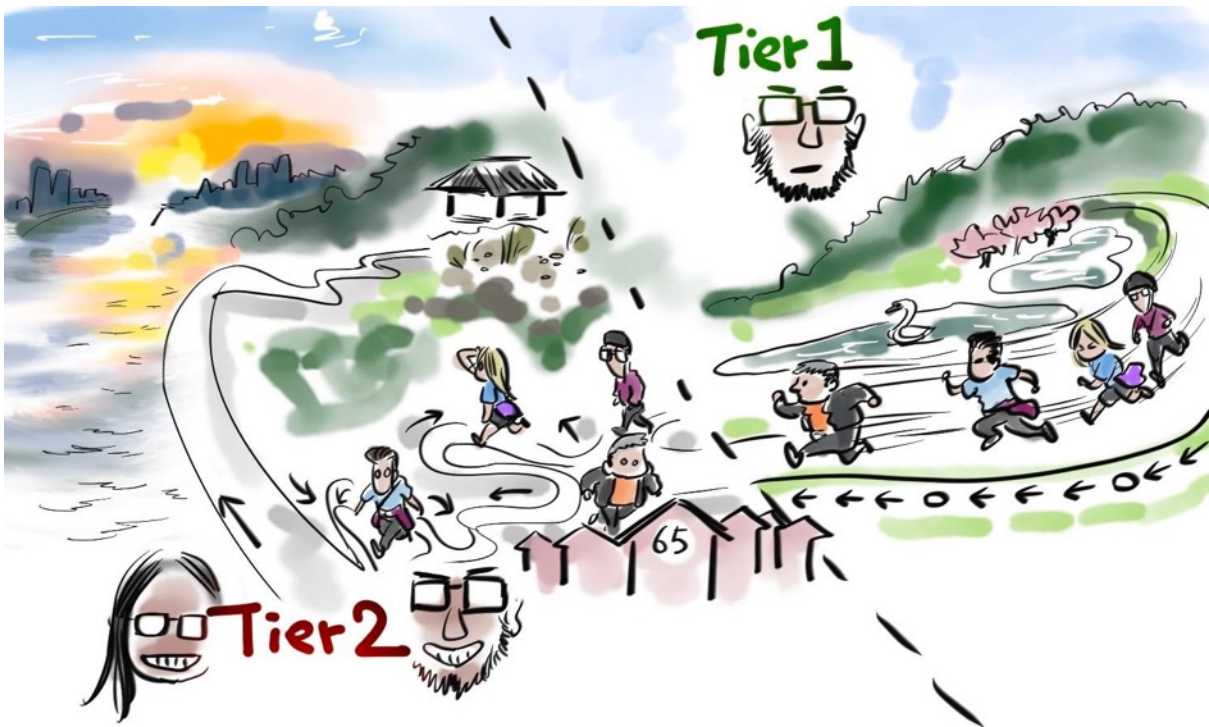

This week's trash is brought to you in pictorial form by PA, our resident artist

(The miracle of Merseyrail meant that Overdrive turned up half an hour early due his train being late. ET showed up after the pack had "decided" he wasn't coming. Wigan P and Now & Then arrived just in time, after the usual freight parking experience...)

The trail was beautifully marked and no-one got lost.

(PA set the first part of the trail on his own, and he was a noticeably "kinder" hare than BS... 🐇
"Number 65" is where BS grew up. And yes, even our clothing colours are correct in the picture)

There was playtime

There was art

We admired the view...

...before winding our way back through Festival gardens to be rewarded with a feast on the school wall that the hares had valiantly carried the whole distance.

Down-downs were awarded; mostly to ET for some unchivalrous commentary on one of the hare's ages. We shall say no more on this matter.

With that, we headed out for The Albert, but didn't quite make it that far - what with Rhubarb seemingly offering better clientele. Alas, the beer was noticeably worse.

On On!
